Date: August 6, 2026

Industry: Automotive Repair & Fleet Maintenance

Main Focus: Quick Wins — reducing no-shows & streamlining parts ordering

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Where your time is really going

YOUR BIGGEST PAIN POINT

Missed/no-show appointments and time spent tracking down backordered parts by phone. You estimated this costs you around 5 hours a week — and once we broke down the numbers below, the real opportunity turned out to be even larger.

WHERE TO START

Three quick wins address this directly: automated appointment reminders and review requests through Podium, plus a free CRM (HubSpot) to stop losing track of new inquiries. All three can be running within a week, with no new hires and no custom software.

What to Do Next

Internal Ops & Team Communication

Major Project

Parts are reordered by calling suppliers individually when something runs out, and work orders are tracked on paper and a shop whiteboard.

Recommended next step: Move to a shop management platform that combines work order tracking with parts ordering, so the front desk and technicians can see stock and reorder status in one place.
